LUNCH TIME: WHAT DOES TILLY THE TIGER SHARK EAT?

Circle all of the things you think Tilly can eat

Tilly might eat ALL of these things!

Tiger sharks are known as the 'garbage cans' of the sea because they eat a wide range of items including things like license plates or life jackets. These items are not regularly on the menu, but these sharks are scavengers and will try random things hoping they are food.

Tiger sharks have serrated teeth that can actually cut through a turtle shell.

They also eat a wide range of fish and marine mammals, including tuna or seals.

They will eat other smaller sharks or large sharks if they are injured or dying.

A bird floating on the surface or a sea snake swimming, by are also meal opportunities.

Think of things you might not normally eat, but would if you were really hungry!
