

Creative Writing Prompt

Imagine your life as a shark scientist. Write a short bio about who you are and what you study. Make sure to include what research questions you are trying to answer and how you collect your data. Try to use descriptive terms and include details about why you think the work that you do is important.

